

Guide for Public Housing for Foreigners Residing in Kanagawa Prefecture

What is Public Housing?

Public housing is a type of housing designed for low-income individuals who face difficulties in terms of finding a residence. There are various eligibility criteria pertaining to the application process (See page 2) .

How to Apply

Each municipality in Kanagawa Prefecture supplies public housing. The application period varies among municipalities. When the application period begins, application forms will be made available (See page 3). As there is a deadline for application submission, you are required to check the availability of application forms at your earliest convenience.

Types of Public Housing

For public housing, the type of room to apply for is determined by the family structure and number of people.

●When applying with a family

- For general households
- For child-rearing households
- For the elderly and individuals with physical and/or mental disabilities
- For big families, etc.

●When applying alone

- For general single households
- For elderly singles, etc.

The types of rooms available vary depending on the municipality. For more details, please consult the application guidelines of the municipality.

Qualification for Application

▶ Duration of Residence

Kanagawa Prefectural Housing:

The applicant lives in Japan and is a registered resident.

Yokohama Municipal Housing:

The applicant has lived in Yokohama City for more than six months and is a registered resident or working in Yokohama City.

Kawasaki Municipal Housing:

The applicant lives in Kawasaki City and is a registered resident. Applicants living outside of Kawasaki City are required to have been employed at Kawasaki City for more than one year.

▶ Applicant's income must be within the base amount

▶ Adequate reason why applicant needs housing assistance

▶ Applicant is an adult

※For more details, please consult the application guidelines or contact NPO Kanagawa Housing Support Center for Foreign Residents.

1. When applying with a family

▶ Basic qualification (Common to Kanagawa Prefectural Housing, Yokohama Municipal Housing and Kawasaki Municipal Housing)

a. A couple (including fiancée and common-law partners) or a family primarily comprising parents and children.

※For other qualifications, please consult the application guidelines or contact NPO Kanagawa Housing Support Center for Foreign Residents.

2. When applying alone

▶ Basic qualification (Common to Kanagawa Prefectural Housing, Yokohama Municipal Housing and Kawasaki Municipal Housing)

a. No legal spouse listed.

※For other qualifications, please consult the application guidelines or contact NPO Kanagawa Housing Support Center for Foreign Residents.

Notes for Application

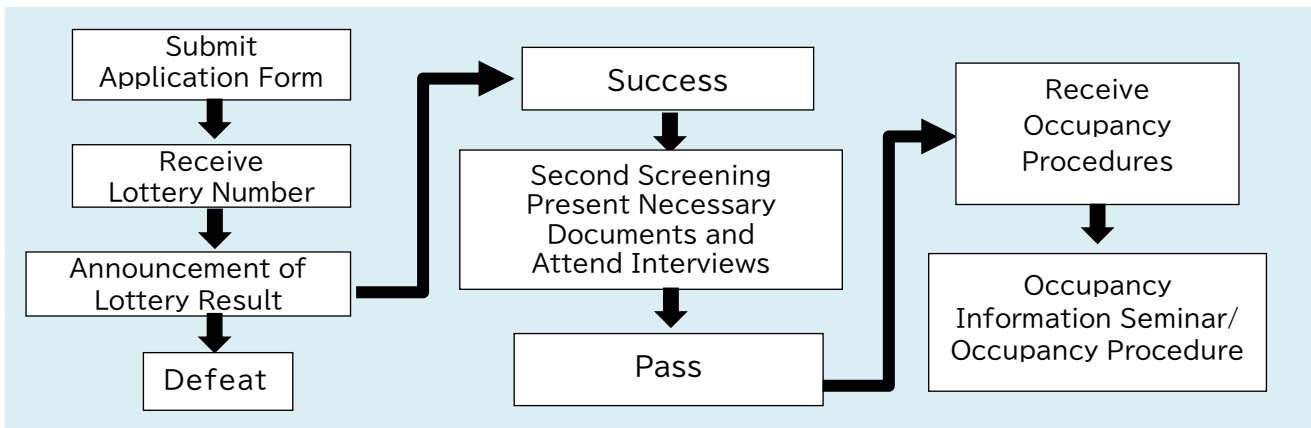

1. Only one application allowed per household.
2. If the application form or other documents are found to be fraudulent, the applicant will be disqualified even if the application passes the screening.
3. Those who have not filled in the family section of the application form will not be eligible to move in. If a change occurs in the family living together when the applicant moves in, the occupancy will be cancelled.
4. The applicant cannot change the house applied for after receiving it.
5. Those who own a house (including those living together) cannot apply.
